We are running a Read for Good Readathon for students in Y7.

It's been proven that children who read for pleasure are more likely to be successful and happy throughout their lives.

The charity Read for Good encourages children to read through its unique motivational approach inspiring reluctant readers to give reading a go, and keen readers to read more widely. Pupils can choose whatever they want to read - from comics to classics and audio books to blogs - they are not being assessed, it's all about reading for fun.

Students will be given sponsor cards in English. The money they raise in sponsorship helps to provide a regular supply of brand new books and a resident storyteller to every major children's hospital in the UK.

This will be open for all Y7 students from Monday 3rd October until the 30th October. All sponsorship money will be collected during the first English lesson back after half term.

If you have any further questions, please speak to Mrs Yeomans.

The King's CE School

Aspire, Believe and Achieve Together

Newsletter 4 Friday 30th September 2022

From the Chaplain....

'Lord have mercy', 'Christ have mercy' say the congregation together as part of their confession during a traditional church service. But what is mercy?

According to the dictionary, mercy is 'compassion or forgiveness shown towards someone whom it is within one's power to punish or harm'. This might involve forgiving someone who deserves to be punished, but it might also be intentionally showing compassion towards someone who would otherwise suffer through our lack of involvement. We will be encouraging each other in the latter over our harvest appeal as we collect much-needed donations for our local foodbanks. It is our belief that we are all created to live together in harmony and that we have a responsibility towards one another in the community where we live and work.

So what about forgiveness? 'What makes it difficult for us to forgive?' I asked my pupils this morning. 'The anger and the hurt we feel', came the answer. We all know the difficulty of letting go of the hurt caused when we have been unfairly treated by others: none of us find this easy. Knowing that the anger and inability to forgive is probably hurting us more than the person who has wronged us, doesn't necessarily make it any easier. So how can we move on and build more positive and peaceful bonds where relationships have broken down?

In our Bible story this week (John 8:1-11) Jesus was approached by men who demanded a sinner be punished. Instead of putting himself in the place of judge, Jesus asked them to consider which of them had never sinned. Slowly the group dispersed until no-one was left to accuse. A little honest recognition of our own failings might help us to be more compassionate towards others who get things wrong. As we practise working out our differences day by day here at school, we try to go one step further, to put ourselves in one another's shoes and to listen to one another's views. Admittedly, where there is deep hurt it can sometimes take a while before we are ready to engage with this process. But when we are able to put aside our anger and really listen, with the purpose of understanding and not of persuading, it can make a world of difference. The gift we offer the other, of our time and our attention, shows them that they are valued; and the walls of hostility begin to tumble down. The things we learn about one another during this process can change our whole way of seeing each other, and open up the possibility for an unimagined hope for the future.

As exemplified by the stories told by Mr Green in house worship this week, where we can find the grace to reach out in compassion and in hope, the result can be a deep peace and a blessing for both parties.

This week we have considered the difference it makes when we show mercy and forgiveness.

The Theme for Worship w.c 3rd October

Created to be unique

1 Peter 4:7-11

At The King's CE School we believe that everyone is unique and created in God's image. We enable all to achieve their God-given potential; to grow, learn and aspire; to transform their lives and the lives of others and to journey in faith without limits within a unified, respectful and harmonious community.
